Gallery Prices

Prices for Móyòsóré Martins' 180 x 150 cm paintings have progressed over the preceding three and a half years from $5,000 to a current $27,500. His work has been collected by more than 125 collectors with about 170 paintings sold over the period. He has become somewhat of a cult figure. There have been fifteen gallery exhibitions, two in the near future, Hong Kong in March, and Paris in October. Demand for his works is consistent as the collector base expands.

Fun facts:

His father forbade him from studying art as a child, so he pursued computer science until he moved to New York in 2015 to pursue his artistic passion.

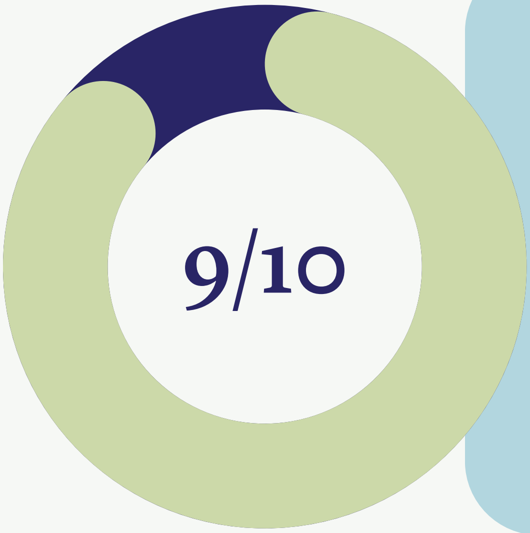
Rating



Return

According to the "2021 Global Art Market & COVID-19 Report" by Citi Private Bank, contemporary art generated a profit of 6.7%, surpassing the returns of other art sectors at 5.5%.
The prices of Martins' works have increased by 450% over the last 3.5 years, and these works come directly from the artist's gallery.

Stability

In terms of investment potential, art has consistently outperformed other types of assets such as the S&P 500 and the FTSE 100 over the past two decades.
The relative illiquidity of art works particularly in its favor, especially for assets that retain a stable value and exhibit minimal correlation with the stock market.

Track Record

Martins' work has already participated in fifteen gallery exhibitions, including notable events such as Scope Miami, Art Basel Hong Kong, and Now, They Know... in Beirut.
In the future, he plans to participate in additional exhibitions, including Galerie T in Paris in October 2024.
