Valuation Summary 📝 To ensure the competitiveness of the investment, we conducted a thorough verification of the purchase price by analyzing recent transactions and current market values across the UK and EU. Our analysis confirmed that the price offered, inclusive of all associated fees, is still highly competitive. To estimate the potential ROI, we used the historical performance data of this specific model. For our conservative scenario, we assumed the value of the car would grow at the rate of Swiss inflation, reflecting a defensive approach. In the balanced scenario, we calculated 80% of the average historical 2-year growth rate (UK). Finally, in the ambitious scenario, we calculated 100% of the average historical 2-year growth rate (UK).

Exit Options at Maturity 📅 We will manage the exit strategy on behalf of our investors, ensuring the best possible outcome based on market conditions at the time. Depending on the car's value and the prevailing market situation, we can either sell the DMC-12 privately to a collector or take it to auction.

Why Invest in This Category? 🚗 Classic cars remain one of the top-performing luxury asset classes, with a strong track record of appreciation. The demand for iconic models like the DMC-12 continues to grow, driven by limited supply and increasing global interest. Investing in classic cars provides a unique hedge against inflation while diversifying your portfolio.

Why Invest in This Asset? 💎 Investing in a DeLorean DMC-12 offers a compelling mix of nostalgia, scarcity, and unique design appeal, making it highly sought after among collectors. Featured prominently in the Back to the Future franchise, the DMC-12 cemented itself as a pop culture icon. With 2025 marking the 40th anniversary of the original film, there is potential for heightened demand, driven by increased media coverage and celebratory events. This enduring nostalgia has translated into real-world value appreciation; models initially sold for around £21,000 (approx. £64,000 today) can now command prices exceeding £80,000, depending on condition and provenance. The featured model, with documented maintenance and an ultra-low average mileage of fewer than 300 miles annually, holds an above-average valuation, enhancing its investment appeal. From 2019 to 2024, the DMC-12's value surged by 68.68%, yielding a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 13.74%, underscoring its strong market performance. Built between 1981 and 1982, fewer than 9,000 units were produced, contributing to its scarcity and enhancing collector demand. Its distinctive stainless-steel panels and gull-wing doors capture the imagination of car enthusiasts, and a loyal fan base further stabilizes its market value. The DMC-12 represents more than just a car—it's a piece of automotive and cinematic history with enduring appeal.

Context in Time ⌚ The DeLorean DMC-12's iconic status is deeply tied to its role in the Back to the Future film series, which catapulted it from niche vehicle to pop culture legend. As we approach 2025, the 40-year anniversary of the original film's release, interest in this time-traveling car is poised to surge, driven by nostalgia and renewed media attention. This milestone jubilee highlights the enduring appeal of the DMC-12 as more than a collector's item—it is a symbol of cinematic history. Its continued recognition exemplifies how movie appearances can elevate a car's status, cementing its cultural legacy across generations.

Conclusion 🎯 In conclusion, investing in the DeLorean DMC-12 offers a rare opportunity to capitalize on a timeless blend of nostalgia, scarcity, and pop culture significance. Our valuation analysis confirms a competitive purchase price, with strong potential for appreciation driven by its iconic movie legacy and the upcoming 40th anniversary of Back to the Future. With managed exit strategies and sustained demand, this asset exemplifies the resilience and appeal of classic cars in today's market.
