Investment Case

Valuation Summary  To ensure the competitiveness of the investment, we conducted a thorough verification of the purchase price by analyzing recent transactions and current market values on the market. Our analysis confirmed that the price offered, inclusive of all associated fees, is still highly competitive. To build up the investment case, we used the historical performance data of these models. For our conservative scenario, we assumed the value of the LEGO sets would grow at the rate of Swiss inflation, reflecting a defensive approach. In the balanced scenario, we assume 70% probability of realizing a 24.6% annual return for the next 5 years (CAGR - since EOL of sets). Finally, in the ambitious scenario, we assume a 100% probability of realizing an 24.6% annual return for the next 5 years (CAGR - since EOL of sets). These potential returns over the next five years, under both the balanced and ambitious scenarios, are further enhanced by the 5.8% discount at which these sets are offered compared to the current lowest offering prices according to toppreise.ch.

Exit Options at Maturity  We will manage the exit strategy on behalf of our investors, ensuring the best possible outcome based on market conditions at the time. Depending on the value of the models and the prevailing market situation, we can either sell the sets privately to a wholesaler or to individual collectors. Both options are carefully considered, and we will choose the one that maximizes the return for our investors.

Why Invest in This Category?  Investing in LEGO sets offers strong potential for returns due to their limited production runs, high collectibility, and consistent demand. Many LEGO sets, especially themed or limited-edition releases, appreciate in value after they are discontinued, sometimes significantly. LEGO appeals to a wide range of buyers, from collectors to casual enthusiasts, ensuring a steady secondary market. Additionally, LEGO sets hold value well over time and often outpace more traditional investments in terms of percentage growth. This makes them an attractive, low-risk option for investors seeking both short-term and long-term returns.

Why Invest in This Asset?  This BrickLink Designer Program III bundle unites seven ultra-rare, community-chosen LEGO sets, each crafted by elite fan designers and produced in strict limited editions. With themes ranging from medieval fortresses and lost cities to charming harbors and artisan chocolate shops, the bundle blends nostalgia, design excellence, and narrative depth. Their quick sellouts, intricate builds, and limited availability underscore the strong collector demand for these masterpieces.

Context in Time 🕒

LEGO 910043 Forest Stronghold (2024): Inspired by the classic Forestmen theme from the 1980s, this set revives the romanticized medieval outlaws, a LEGO cult favorite that first appeared in 1987. The Forestmen were seen as LEGO's answer to Robin Hood, embodying rebellion, independence, and a deep bond with the forest. This revival merges nostalgia with modern design, celebrating 35+ years of fan devotion.

LEGO 910042 Lost City (2024): Echoing myths of Atlantis and El Dorado, the Lost City taps into centuries-old tales of ancient civilizations hidden in jungles or beneath oceans. The twin towers, king's tomb, and crumbling architecture invoke themes of discovery, imperial ambition, and the beauty of forgotten grandeur, continuing a LEGO tradition dating back to Adventurers sets of the 1990s.

LEGO 910041 Harbormaster's Office (2024): Ports and harbormasters have historically symbolized exploration, trade, and the frontier between land and sea. This set pays tribute to that legacy through detailed nautical equipment and a richly layered narrative of maritime life, resonating with the enduring fascination of LEGO Pirates and Town sets of the late 1980s.

LEGO 910039 The Art of Chocolate (2024): Chocolate's transformation from sacred Mesoamerican ritual drink to modern indulgence is centuries-long. This set reflects the cultural journey of chocolate from Mayan and Aztec origins to European refinement, wrapped in festive holiday charm—a rare blend of culinary history and winter nostalgia.

LEGO 910041 Camping Adventure (2024): Post-WWII saw the rise of the camper van as a symbol of freedom and family escape. This set captures the golden age of road trips, cozying up with 1950s Americana and the universal dream of nature-bound adventures, perfectly timed for today's eco-conscious, unplugged lifestyle seekers.

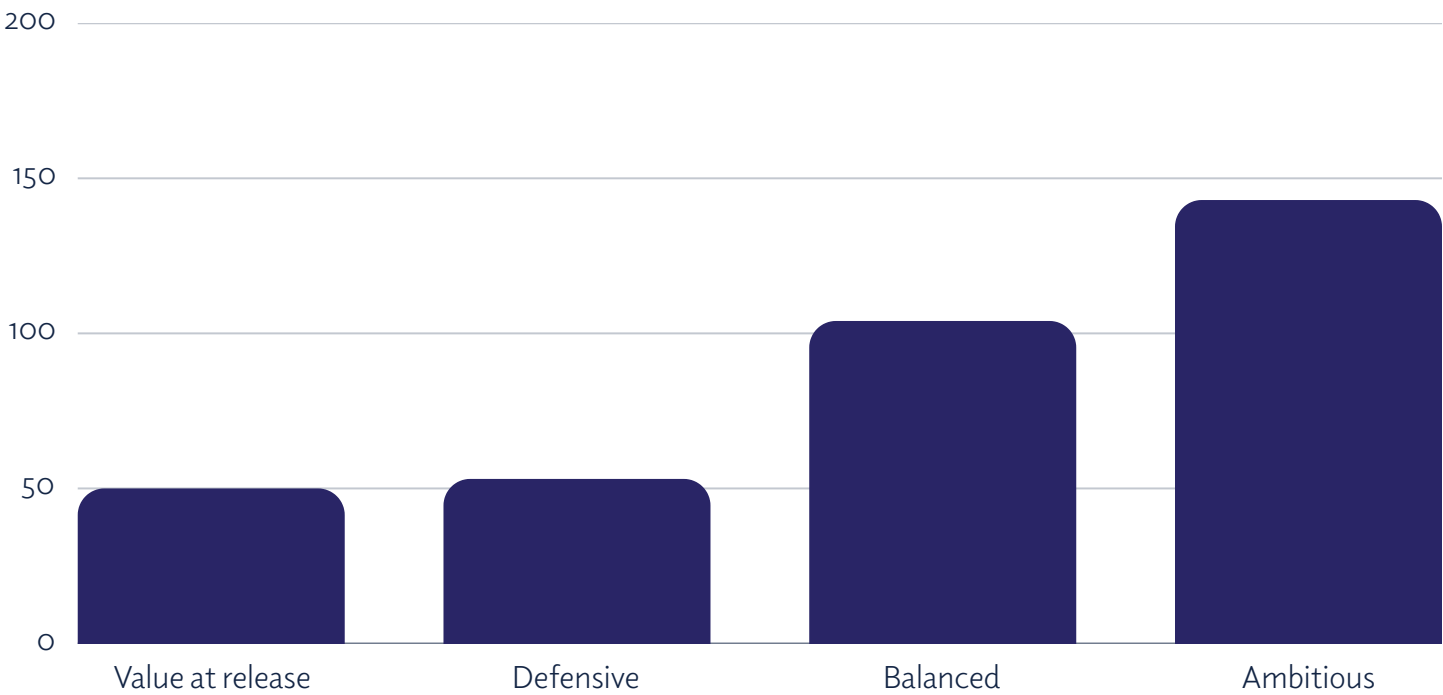

Conclusion 🎯 The BrickLink Designer Series 3 bundle of seven sets is a singular opportunity to own a complete portfolio of LEGO's rarest and most artistically compelling releases. With market demand surging, and supply capped forever, this bundle offers exceptional cultural and financial value for collectors and investors alike.

Projection

The sets offer high return potential. The expected annual return ranges between 1.2% and 23.3%, depending on market conditions.
