Investment Case

Valuation Summary 📊 To ensure the competitiveness of the investment, we conducted a thorough verification of the purchase price by analyzing recent transactions and current market values on the secondary card market. Our analysis confirmed that the price offered, inclusive of all associated fees, is competitive. To estimate the potential ROI, we based our analysis on the historical price development of all EX-era Pokémon booster boxes. For the conservative scenario, we assumed the value of the displays would grow at the rate of Swiss inflation, taking a defensive approach. In the balanced scenario, we applied 80% of the average price increase for these two displays over the past two years. Finally, in the ambitious scenario, we applied 100% of the average price increase for these two displays over the past two years.

Exit Options at Maturity 🏠 We will manage the exit strategy on behalf of our investors, ensuring the best possible outcome based on market conditions at the time. Depending on the value of the card and the prevailing market situation, we can either sell the card privately to a collector or take it to auction. Both options are carefully considered, and we will choose the one that maximizes the return for our investors.

Why Invest in This Category? ⚡ Investing in Pokémon cards is particularly timely with the franchise's upcoming jubilee, expected to drive heightened interest and value appreciation in rare and nostalgic collectibles.

Why Invest in This Asset? 🔥 Neo Discovery is one of the most iconic and historically significant sets in Pokémon's early years, capturing the excitement of Generation II Pokémon while introducing game-changing mechanics that still resonate with collectors today.

Neo Discovery - A True Collector's Grail 🌟

Released in 2001, Neo Discovery was the second set in the legendary Neo era, following the groundbreaking Neo Genesis. This expansion introduced Unown cards, Espeon and Umbreon as standout holographic rares, and continued the introduction of Baby Pokémon, a defining mechanic of the time. The set also featured some of the most beautifully illustrated holographic cards, making it a nostalgic favorite for both collectors and players.

Extreme Rarity & Investment Potential ✨

Finding a sealed first edition booster display of Neo Discovery today is an extreme rarity. Many of these boxes were opened decades ago by fans chasing the powerful Espeon, Tyranitar, and Houndoom holos, leaving very few untouched displays in circulation. With first edition booster boxes from the early Pokémon TCG era becoming nearly impossible to source, Neo Discovery stands as a true collector's grail.

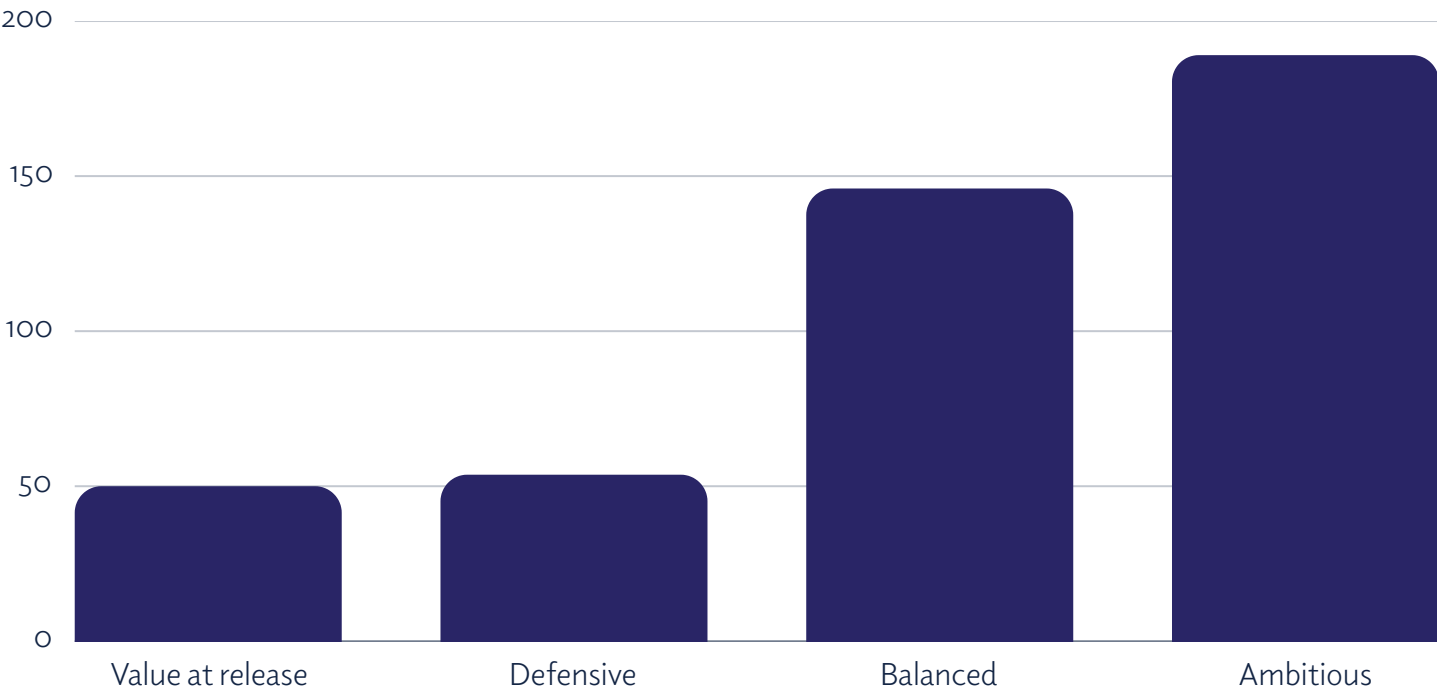

Context in Time ⌚ The Neo era (2000-2002) marked one of Pokémon's most transformative periods. Following the Base Set boom, Neo Discovery and its counterparts cemented Pokémon's long-term collectibility, introducing Johto Pokémon to the trading card world. Unlike today's high-production, mass-market sets, the Neo era had far lower print runs, making sealed product incredibly scarce.

Conclusion 🎯 The Neo Discovery first edition booster display represents a rare and historically significant investment opportunity within the Pokémon TCG market. With limited supply, strong collector demand, and a proven track record of appreciation, this asset offers both long-term value potential and portfolio diversification, making it an attractive choice for discerning investors.
